Tough Phase for the Aluminium Industry

Macro risks and overhang of stocks have pushed LME below cost for many smelters

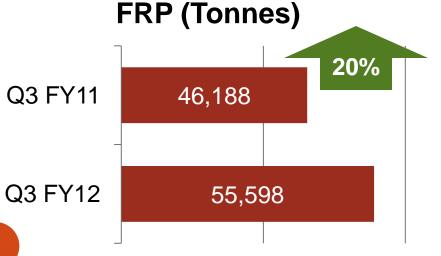

Alcoa, Rio Tinto, Hydro, Zalco, Rusal have announced closure of >1 mn ton capacity in recent announcements; more may follow ...

Al: Higher Production

Extrusions (Tonnes)

Al: Sales Performance and Mix

Soft patch in Indian growth story

Resulting in lower domestic sales

But we managed to sell more metal and more VAP

Aluminium Financials

₹Cr	Q3 FY11	Q3 FY12	Change (%)
Net Sales	1,977	2,236	13.1
EBIT	465	310	(33.4)

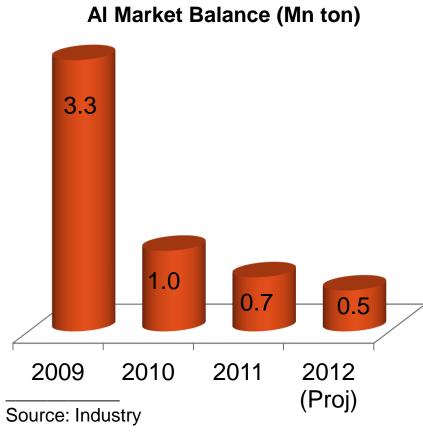

₹Cr	9M FY11	9M FY12	Change (%)
Net Sales	5,754	6,543	13.7
EBIT	1,441	1,338	(7.2)

Cost pressures Soft LME Adverse mix

Al. LME: Volatility may continue ...

- Softer demand and smelter closures are expected to leave market in a small surplus in 2012
- Dec-end global stocks ~101 days of consumption (vs. 88 days at end-Sep)
  - Financing deals viable so far
- Cost curve warrants higher LME for viability of nearly one-third of smelters

While cost curve calls for a higher LME floor, macro risks may test it from time to time
